Familiar Faces

"You're never a stranger at Wesleyan..." one WVWC alum said earlier this year. Perhaps that is why the campus administration, faculty, and staff are comprised by a large number of Wesleyan alumni. These individuals truly are not strangers to this particular campus community. They truly have made Wesleyan their permanent "Home Away From Home."

Looking around campus, it is easy to find alumni who now serve the college in some manner. Talking with those folks allows one to discover why they wanted to be at Wesleyan in a different capacity than their prior experience as a student. The reasons are endless. For some, this is an opportunity to give back to a college that gave so much to them. For others, the buildings, landscape, and faces here have always been more than familiar. And, some simply profess an endless source of Bobcat pride. Indeed, these are the things that have always whispered "home". These are the things that become instilled into the lives of Wesleyan students, alumni, and friends. These are the things that bring the many faces of Wesleyan back "home". These are the things that make it so people truly never are strangers at Wesleyan.

Wesleyan Welcomes New Faces

New faces, new talents, and new people arrived at West Virginia Wesleyan this year and they weren't even part of the 500 plus entering first year students. These individuals were the new faculty and staff of Wesleyan who decided to make the Buckhannon area their new home. Why they chose Wesleyan is a question many of them answer in the same manner as entering freshmen. New faculty and staff chose Wesleyan because of location, because of reputation, and because of opportunity.

When asked why she chose to join the Wesleyan community, Tamara Denmark, Director of Intercultural Relations, stated "the best part of this position is working with the students and learning what makes each one unique." Similarly, Dr. Eric Waggoner, Assistant Professor of English, enjoys the low student-to-faculty ratio where it's easy "to interact with students on a personal level, which makes the teaching much more effective," in his view. And, Dr. Elizabeth Oppe, Assistant Professor of Communication, finds Wesleyan within close proximity of family, which is very important to her, and she also appreciates "Wesleyan's high regard for quality education" and the sincere respect her colleagues have within the communication field.

Like Denmark and Oppe, staff and faculty are often West Virginia natives who long to live in the mountains of the state, near close friends and family. Some folks join the Wesleyan community because of the college's reputation, commitment to excellence, and enduring values and traditions. And, like Waggoner, many others find the opportunities Wesleyan offers as a small, private, liberal arts college to be more than ideal. For whatever reason, the Wesleyan community welcomes these new faces and friends to campus.

Creating New Homes for New Students

Agnes Howard, Benedum, Camden, Doney, Fleming, Holloway, Jenkins, and McCuskey -- the names of the "homes" of all Wesleyan students for a few years. These Wesleyan communities offer more than a place for students to rest their heads. They offer a place for students to learn about responsibility, cooperation, and tolerance.

The residential communities of Wesleyan flourish because of the work of the Housing and Residence Life Office, whose mission statement specifically states that it strives to "encourage cognitive, personal, spiritual, and social development." It wants to provide a welcoming and learning community for all students. It extends the mission of the college by providing social events, academic opportunities, and community service outings. It works to better student life on campus.

The Housing and Residence Life Office develops, maintains, and revises the policies, procedures, and opportunities that community living has to offer. This department is responsible for events ranging from "Got Pride?" to the S.M.A.R.T. Program to the Pick-a-Project Community Service Day. They have also recently restructured several upperclass residence halls with a handful of suites to better serve the various personalities of students. In this office, challenges are welcomed, creativity appears endless, and students remain the focus.

The Class of 2003

The older we get, the faster time seems to pass. When the last exam has been completed, the degrees have been conferred, and the final item has been packed up from our dorm rooms forever, the millions of moments the seniors of 2003 have shared during their tenure at West Virginia Wesleyan College will become part of a new closed chapter in our books of life. The members of the 2003 graduating class at West Virginia Wesleyan College will begin looking back not only on their last year here at Wesleyan, but on the period of time between when they first encountered this small, private, liberal arts college in Buckhannon, West Virginia, to the moment in May 2003 when they were presented with their diploma in Rockefeller Center. The years spent here will no longer seem to be without end, but in fact, will feel like they passed in a mere blink of an eye. It would be impossible to trigger all the memories of each graduate in a few pages of this yearbook, but perhaps, in keeping with our theme, a look at where the class of 2003 came from, where they lived during their years here, and where they are going after graduation, will help the members of the Class of 2003 to recall their individual memories of their time at Wesleyan, their "Home Away From Home".

Where We Came From...

Once upon a time, four or more years ago, none, or very few of the Class of 2003 knew that the name "Big Al" was actually a reference to the campus dining hall, nor had we considered the implications of a plus/minus grading system. In fact, it was quite likely that many were unaware of the exact location of Buckhannon, West Virginia.

Four years ago, the majority of this year's graduates were seniors in high school, feeling as though they were on top of the world. Similar to the 2002-03 school year, they were anticipating graduation and consequently making what was probably the biggest decision of their lives to that date— where to go to college. When choosing a school, varying influences played a role in their decisions. However, to almost all students, how far one was willing, or wanting, to venture from their current home was a key factor to almost everyone.

Not long after the college selections had been made, the majority of the Class of 2003 gathered for the first time on Orientation Weekend 1999. The first question asked of each other was often, "Where are you from?". The responses varied greatly. Students arriving from out-of-state noticed that many West Virginians responded to this question by simply stating their home county or regional area, confusing those unfamiliar with the state's geography. Students making long treks to Wesleyan received varying responses of surprise, curiosity, and even bewilderment when revealing their hometowns, particularly from those students who had lived their whole life in close proximity to Buckhannon.

For example, Gustavo Pontual-Machado says people were so surprised to learn he is from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil that they usually responded with a simple, "Wow". Despite the major differences between his homeland and Buckhannon, Gustavo states, "I can definitely say Buckhannon was my home for four years."

Many seniors whose hometowns were close by never considered colleges that would have mandated a lengthy trip between home and school. Similarly, many of seniors who spend hours in cars, or even the air, to reach Buckhannon never considered attending a school near their original hometowns. Regardless, however, of the proximity of a graduate's original home to Wesleyan, or even the role distance played in the college decision-making process, it is likely that now after four years on the campus of West Virginia Wesleyan College that the members of the Class of 2003 hold two special places in their hearts— their original hometowns and Buckhannon, West Virginia, their "Home Away From Home".

Where We've Lived...

Through their four years, the members of the Class of 2003 carried their belongings back and forth between their original homes and their "Home Away From Home" at Wesleyan. The process of moving in each August and out each May became a science to most. They learned to more carefully analyze what they really needed versus what they thought they needed, just as many learned to time their laundry schedules just right, so when they couldn't go another day without doing a wash, it was time to head home to the free laundry facilities of their original homes. But, in between the moving in and moving out, each student was given an area each year to temporarily house their belongings, as well as themselves, while at school. This area then became their "home base" while residing at Wesleyan, their "Home Away From Home".

All of the seniors' four years brought changes and more options for their "home base". Once freshman year passed, this year's graduates all looked forward to the opportunity of more choice in room and roommate assignments through the room selection process. However, when selection time for sophomore year arrived, many females were surprised to learn they would once again be residing in Holloway. These new changes made the Class of 2003 the final class to have the cross-campus freshmen experience—girls in Holloway and Jenkins; boys in Doney and Fleming. Looking back, 2003 seniors often spoke of "the way it was" to the younger students living in the Quad, now often dubbed "Freshmen World".

This final year exhibited the most diverse living arrangements among fellow senior classmates. From electing to provide their own housing off-campus, to choosing to stay in the traditional dormitory style housing with one room, two people, and a bath down the hall, the members of the Class of 2003 chose a wide variety of locations to serve as their "home base", as graduates were spread across campus and throughout the city of Buckhannon.

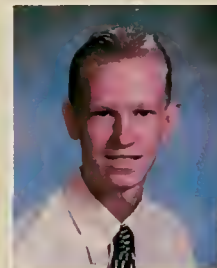

Regardless of the locations 2003 seniors may have chosen as their "home base" during their time at Wesleyan, it would be difficult for them to deny that their living arrangements during their years greatly contributed to their overall experience while at their "Home Away From Home".

Wesleyan has felt like my home away from home since early in my freshman year. I really connected with my roommate and the other girls on my side of the hall. We truly are a tight knit community. I love walking around and seeing familiar faces, just as I would if I were in my original hometown. I will truly miss Wesleyan when I graduate in May.

Where We Are Going...

As their time at Wesleyan draws to a close, the members of the Class of 2003 must consider the many impacts of saying goodbye to their "Home Away From Home". Knowing that graduation is quickly approaching, seniors must also consider many pertinent decisions regarding their futures. Those decisions, often based on career endeavors and other future aspirations, easily multiply into many other choices they must make. A question, whose answer is often determined by other factors such as where one is offered a job or accepted into graduate school, is "Where will my new home be?".

Since these seniors made their decision to attend West Virginia Wesleyan College, they knew that, for at least the majority of the next four years, their life would be led in the small town of Buckhannon, West Virginia. Now that their time here is complete, they must each make the decision of where to go next. After graduation in May 2003, some members of the class will return to their original homes, to live with parents for the time being, or perhaps to find a place of their own. Some, on the other hand, will immediately venture out to start a new chapter of life in unfamiliar towns, cities, and possibly even foreign countries.

The places they choose might be just another "Home Away From Home", or might in fact, become their new permanent home. Whatever the case may be, for most, Buckhannon and the campus of West Virginia Wesleyan College will forever hold a special place in their memories, as a place they once called "home".

Anxious to Become a Senior

Being a junior at West Virginia Wesleyan puts me right in the middle of all that matters and will matter in my life. A junior in college is too old to be distracted by silly college parties and old enough to be thinking more about the future than what they will be doing this weekend. My junior year has taught me about who I am and what I need to do in the future. I have begun to realize that my time at WVWC is winding down and I may not see some of my friends again once I leave Wesleyan. As a junior, I have hit a certain reality wall that has allowed me to be proud of my past and confident about my future. It is hard to believe that next year is my last year and that I will soon be a senior. Those in my class have gone down a long, hard road to get to where they are now and to be moving into our senior year is a great accomplishment. To look back at who my friends were at the beginning of my freshman year is a complete contrast as to who they are today. Wesleyan has shaped who we are and who we will become. Wesleyan has given to us in the past three years what no one else could give us in an entire lifetime, to this point.

Adjusting to my "Home away from Home"

As a freshman here at Wesleyan, I can tell you firsthand how difficult it can be to move away from all the things and people you know and love to a place where no one really cares about you at all. Oh sure, they care about you as a student and everything, but not like the people back home. It is particularly hard for those of us who live out of state, because it's no two hour drive to most of our homes and that makes going back anytime other than holidays pretty difficult.

First of all, there's the roommate experience. As soon as you walk in, you see this stranger standing in your new home. You politely introduce yourself and your family, but then you really want to get settled in. However, this person and all her stuff is already in the room, so how can you possibly fit everything you brought when she obviously seems to think that her stuff is more important than yours because it not only consumes your half of the room but most of the hallway too. And all the while you're thinking, as you lug your 15 suitcases in the room and leave some in the hallway for more space, how can I live with this person?

Next comes leaving your family, which for me was the hardest part. I'll be upfront; I swore up and down that I was not going to cry when they left. Oh, I definitely cried. First, when they pulled out of the parking spot and started driving away and again when I was forced to go back to my room which very closely resembled a jail cell. Since my relationship with my roommate was new, I could find no comfort with her, even though she was going through the same thing I was. Look at that, we already had something in common. I assumed that from then on, I was basically alone and orphaned.

From this point on, until around the one month into being at college, life seems really hard, and many times you'll want to just go home and forget all about college. However, if you don't believe anything I've said to you thus far, please believe this: The home sickness will pass!!! Don't give up because eventually that stranger who you share that "jail cell" with might actually like the same bands and movies you do. Your family misses you and wishes you could come home more often too, but they are proud of you for going to college. Keep them proud by staying in college. The best cures for home sickness are to call often, write letters or e-mails, and instant messenger to keep in touch. It'll make you and them feel much better.

All in all, being a freshman is tough. Remember, you are not in this alone, so talk to a few people and make some new friends.

Students in Free Enterprise

Students in Free Enterprise compete on both the regional and national levels. The organization has 30 members, and their faculty advisor is Dr. Bellamy. Their mission statement is to inspire, serve, and empower others around the world through extending knowledge of free enterprise, while advancing the student's own learning experience. SIFE placed in the top 3% of the nation last year, against 1000 other teams in the national competition in Kansas City. This year they have been working with students at Central Elementary School on a micro-economy project. This project has been the most successful project and was called Economy Five. Economy Five is an educational project in which SIFE members teach the fifth grade class at Central Elementary about the basics of business and economics and then allow them to begin their own businesses. The members met with the children once a week for an hour since September. SIFE will be competing at the regional level in April and the national level in May. The group feels that with the knowledge of Free Enterprise, the future of the community is boundless. In addition, the group is beginning to sell coffee on campus. The coffee has been imported from Tanzania and will help aid impoverished farmers in that location.

Wesleyan Recycles

Wesleyan Recycles is composed of two work-studies, Judith Vojik and Kathleen Mulligan. They help to recycle plastic soda bottles, mixed office paper, newspapers, cardboard and even magazines. Wesleyan Recycles attempts to reduce solid waste and to conserve our natural resources. Upshur County collects at least 800 tons of garbage each month, and through the consolidation efforts of the city and community of Buckhannon and the Upshur County Solid Waste Authority, 70 tons of recyclable materials are collected each month. Recently, the organization received a grant from the state to increase supplies and workers. They are currently welcoming new volunteers.

C-92 FM: Underconstruction

The campus radio station, C-92 FM, strives to maintain a successful and entertaining station. C-92 FM is composed of students who volunteer their time to be DJs and those currently enrolled in Broadcast Practicum. Dr. Kathleen Long, the radio station's faculty advisor also teaches the Broadcast Practicum class. C-92 FM's executive board has expanded this year by adding new positions. It now consists of a General Manager, a Production Director, a Programming Director, a Training Director, a Promotions Director, a Music Director, a Secretary, and a Sales Manager. C-92 has recently trained a large number of new DJs, adding variety and a creative voice to the station. C-92 will once again play a role in the annual concert sponsored by CAB. C-92 has made more of an attempt to promote itself on campus this year as well as a fair amount of restructuring decisions that it hopes will have a successful outcome.

Campus Activities Board

The Campus Activities Board is one of the largest organizations on campus. The purpose of this organization is to provide students with entertainment and a variety of activities in which to participate. CAB sponsors activities like bingo, new movies, comedians and games. CAB provides great alternative activities for the weekends.

There is a wide variety of students who represent CAB, and they all bring something valuable to the table. Being a part of CAB is a great way to develop leadership and communication skills.

Every year, members get a chance to use those skills at the National Association for Campus Activities (NACA) Conference. This year CAB represented Wesleyan in Nashville for the National Conference. Here, CAB were able to see up-and-coming bands, comedians, magicians and just about anything else one could imagine. After the conference, CAB considers all the acts and attempts to figure out what is best for the Wesleyan community.

Active members of CAB report that it is one of the best experiences of thier college career as they have learned a lot about themselves and gain valuable life experiences.

The Engineering and Physics Club

The Engineering and Physics Club has 35 members and their mission is to investigate career and advanced educational options in the field of physics and engineering. This year the Engineering and Physics Club has been very active on the campus of WWVC. The National Director of the American Institute of Physics, Dr. Stith, came to campus to talk to the club about possible careers in the field. Dr. Paule Drake, a research scientist from the University of Michigan, also came to campus this year to talk about experimental plasma physics. One of the club's fondest memories involves a Christmas party hosted by Dr. Popson, their advisor, at his home. Dr. Popson used his Christmas tree laser to produce a red-and-green laser show for the students. The members also plan to tour Corhart Refractories to gain understanding of the work of a ceramic engineer.

Alpha Phi Omega and Habitat for Humanity: Building the Future

Alpha Phi Omega is a nationally recognized co-ed service fraternity that values friendship, leadership, and most importantly service. The organization is based on the founding principles of the Boy Scouts of America. The chapter here at WWWC, Alpha Delta Omicron, strives to provide service to the brotherhood, campus, our nation, and to the youth of America. While most of APO's energy is concentrated on service activities, members do spend a fair amount of time becoming closer friends and stronger leaders. Every year the fraternity plans two formals and a vast array of different fellowship and leadership building activities. The organization recently inducted a new pledge class, and the fraternity is eager to welcome these new brothers. The organization has been working closely with Dr. Beeby and Dr. Welliver to help with some of the funds on the Habitat for Humanity house.

Alpha Phi Omega is always seeking new potential brothers who are committed to doing service. APO holds rush twice a year, like many other fraternities and sororities, once in the spring and once again in the fall. The pledge period usually lasts about 6 weeks. The brotherhood currently consists of 29 brothers and continues to grow each semester. Anyone is welcome to be a part of the APO family if they are serious about service, all one has to do is sign up for their next rush party!

Percussion Ensemble

Below: SIFE (Student's in Free Enterprise) members work hard at their fundraiser

The WVWC Percussion Ensemble has 20 members and is one of three performance groups in which percussionist may participate. The ensemble is composed of music majors, both vocal, and instrumental, as well as any other interested musicians within the Wesleyan Community who may not be majoring in music. The WVWC Percussion Ensemble incorporates a varied array of percussion instruments including electronic keyboard, and bass. The WVWC Percussion Ensemble seeks to heighten its performers musical sensitivity and technical proficiency through the study of chamber music. Compositions performed by the ensemble vary from requiring as few as two players, to as many as 18. The Ensemble performs music department recitals regularly in the fall and spring, a fall tour of neighboring states, as well as area schools, and performances as needed on the campus.

Community Council

Community counsel has 33 members and its purpose is to act as a major governance body of the campus community where matters of academic, social, and societal concern are discussed and acted upon. Community Counsel's mission statement is to be the governance body that handles, in part or in whole, all matters concerning the community of West Virginia Wesleyan College, by enacting those duties placed upon it by the college and those duties which it properly delegates to itself.

Community counsel has accomplished many things this year. President of Community Counsel, Brett Cover, along with Ailyn Yalez, Nick Learned, James Phillips, and Lee Ann Brown attended a "Raise Your Voice," forum at the University of Charleston. The 5 participated in a simulated forum elaborating on America's role in the world today. They then took this knowledge from the forum and attempted to conduct such events on campus. These same five members will host the same event on campus with WV public broadcasting present to televise the event.

Brett Cover and Leanna Laskey also attended the WV Student Government Association (WVSGA) conference at West Virginia University in Parkersburg. This marked the first year that private institutions from the state were invited. West Virginia Wesleyan College is planning to host the Fall 2003 WVSGA conference--the first ever private institution to hold such an event.

First, Finest, Forever

The 2002-2003 school year was quite an exciting one for the girls of Alpha Delta Pi. With Alpha classes of seven members in the fall and thirteen in the spring, they were constantly improving.

The bonds of sisterhood were strengthened throughout the year by having their Pride activities as well as guiding new Alphas through gaining membership by Diamond sisters.

Every semester, the sisters visited the Ronald McDonald house in Morgantown to cheer up the residents there. They cooked dinner and spent time with the people. ADPi girls raised money through raffles and soda can tabs among other things for the house. The ladies also participated in a bowl-a-thon for the Lupus Foundation.

Alpha Delta Pi sisters participated in an array of sisterhood activities and ADPi is truly the first and finest sorority.

Upholding Traditions

The sisters of Alpha Gamma Delta donned their countless roles on campus this year, upholding the sisterhood's fine traditions of diversity and excellence. The Alpha Gams took part in two successful recruitment periods, welcoming 26 new sisters into the sorority.

The sisters participated in walk-a-thons, skate-a-thons, and canned food drives for the Parish House, as well as volunteering with the AIDS Awareness program which was brought to campus by one of their own sisters. Fundraisers were also numerous for the AGD sisters, who worked hard to raise money for juvenile diabetes. Activities on campus they participated in included the Hanging of the Greens and Children's Festival.

The sisterhood continued to grow with these excellent traditions as the sisters endeavored to better the Wesleyan community.

Another AmaXing Year

Alpha Xi Delta had another amazing year at WVWC. The Beta Sigma chapter was pleased to accept 7 new members through fall recruitment. Together, the chapter participated in many philanthropic events such as the annual Xi-Saw at Homecoming, where the Xi's see-sawed for twenty-four hours to raise money for Choose Children. The sisters also prepared goody bags for the children who attended Alpha Sigma Phi's haunted house, participated in the Hanging of the Greens, and made book markers for the children at Central Elementary School. Another project the sisters completed was hosting a party between performances of the play Winnie the Pooh on campus.

During spring recruitment, 15 new members were welcomed into the sisterhood. Second semester brought many wonderful memories to the chapter, such as formal and Greek Week.

Capturing the Silver

The Delta Upsilon Chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha Fraternity started off the year more eager and excited to make it their best. The sisters added ten new members in the fall and welcomed fifteen new women in the spring.

The ZTA zest continued through Homecoming with the Bounce-A-Thon to raise money for the Susan G. Komen Foundation. Also, sister Bethany Horton was crowned homecoming queen. Zeta ladies also participated in different service projects and fundraising, for example, the Buckhannon River cleanup with Chi Phi and the Heart Walk. They also participated in the Mr. Wesleyan pageant and Christmas on Campus. It was also an award winning year for the ZTA's when they captured the Silver Award, which is the highest award given nationally.

The sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha will never forget the many countless memories.

Carrying on Traditions

Alpha Sigma Phi has not only grown in numbers but character in the past year. With a Spring 2003 pledge class of 12 men, they look strong in carrying on the traditions of one of the oldest, still active fraternities.

They always know how to throw a party together. Whether just a random bash, or parties with themes such as the White Trash Trailer Bash or TOGA party, they know how to have a good time.

But partying is not all these guys do. Every year they sponsor a haunted house where proceeds go to the Upshur County Head Start program. This past year they contributed over $750 to the program. For their generous contributions, the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity is having an article written about them in a publication from the National Head Start Program. Other service projects include Toys for Tots and local clothing drives.

They also participated in the Heart Walk where they received the most participation award amongst fraternities.

The Chi Phi brothers were also proud to receive the President's Cup and are looking forward to the next year to see what new members they can bring into their fraternity and also to win the Cup again.

The brothers also made many improvements to their house and did very well in

Continued Strength

The brotherhood of Kappa Alpha Order of the Beta Chi chapter at West Virginia Wesleyan College continued their strong tradition this year. During the 2002-2003 school year twelve men pledged the Order. Kappa Alpha participated in numerous activities and projects to help the Buckhannon community. Some brothers volunteered their time to help the Stockert Youth Center's basketball teams. The brothers were also active in many parts of school life. Not only are the brothers active in varsity sports for the college, but many of the brothers were also starters on this year's Conference Champion football team. Also throughout the year the brothers spent their time fundraising for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The highlights of the year were winning first place in Greek Week and also doing well competing for the President's Cup.

On campus, the brothers participated in Homecoming festivities, Hanging of the Greens, and an American Heart Association heart-walk, for which they raised more money than any other Greek association.

sponsored more nonalcoholic functions than any other fraternity including mud wrestling, a Super Bowl party, a Spaghetti Dinner and their annual coffee house. They continued to make improvements to their chapter house.

Through their diversity, their commitment to excellence, and the support of Wesleyan's best alumni, Theta Chi looked to extend a helping hand for generations to come.

Successful and Strong

Continued success and strong bonds set the pace in the 41st year of the Kappa Tau chapter of Theta Xi fraternity. The brotherhood accepted 10 new members in the fall and 12 in the spring. The brothers enjoyed many events such as formal, Hippy Friday and homecoming. Theta Xi brothers were still able to maintain the highest overall GPA among all fraternities.

During the year, the brothers participated in Adopt

A Highway, Habitat for Humanity, fundraisers for the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation, and Parish House activities. The diversity of the brotherhood was displayed in theatre performances, Community Council positions, and collegiate sporting activities.

The fraternity continued to look forward to a promising future and even more success in upcoming years as Wesleyan's best fraternity.

Wesleyan Harriers Regain Cross Country Crown

After an uncharacteristic year without a conference title, Wesleyan's Cross Country produced solid seasons and regained its winning form. The 2002 season brought many unexpected surprises for the 'Cats. The most amazing was senior captain Kelly Terhune's season long domination of the WVIAC runners. Terhune, who had been limited to a handful of races in previous years due to a respiration illness, stepped up to lead a young Lady Bobcat team back to the top of the WVIAC.

Terhune's victory at the Conference Championships earned her the league MVP award. In the supporting role, freshman Stephanie Hatfield and Betsy Curry earned All-Conference honors in their first season, while Hatfield was voted Rookie of the Year. Head Coach Jesse Skiles earned WVIAC Coach of the Year. With a talented and experienced team returning, the Lady Bobcats will look to defend their title and improve in the region.

On the men's side, Wesleyan continued to rebuild after finishing 3rd a year ago. At Lock Haven University Cross Country Invite, Wesleyan defeated conference rival Alderson Broadus College with great races from sophomores Justin Cox, Steven Nutter, and Justin Rogers. Confidence from this victory carried into the championship season.

After an unranked first half of the season, the men moved as high as 7th in the NCAA East Region and finished runner-up to Wheeling Jesuit University at the conference championships. Justin Cox and freshman Jason Gurney earned All-Conference honors as Gurney was named Rookie of the Year.

Top: In order to prevent injuries, these athletes work hard on stretching prior to practice. # Football

An unforgettable season for football ...

After starting the year 0-3, the Bobcats won 7 of 8 games and grabbed the 2002 WVIAC title. This is the first championship for the 'Cats since they shared the title with Glenville in 1995, and their first outright title since 1961.

Several records were broken in 2002, including total offense in one season (4,588 yards), yards rushing in one season (2,431 yards) and first downs in one season (235). Senior RB Duriel Cobb set Bobcat records in the categories of career rushing (3,180 yards); single season rushing (1,440 yards); carries in a single season (265); and career all-purpose yards (4,071). Cobb was named as a first team all-conference player, and was chosen as the WVIAC Offensive Player of the Year.

Head coach Bill Struble was named as the WVIAC Coach of the Year. Wesleyan finished the season with a 7-4 overall record and a 6-1 mark in the WVIAC.

Men's Soccer Brings Home Third Title

Although their final record of 17-4-1 (10-1 WVIAC) was unable to garner them a bid to the national tournament, the WWC men's soccer team won their 3rd straight and 19th total WVIAC title. Behind 12 experienced seniors and a crop of newcomers, the Bobcats played under the lights at Wood Street Field for the first time in 2002, which provided a unique atmosphere for WWC soccer.

Head coach Gavin Donaldson was named the WVIAC Coach of the Year for the second year in a row, while senior goalkeeper Jorge Geddes was named Player of the Year. Seniors Erik Schmitt, Greg Bennett, and David Palmer joined Geddes on the first team All-WVIAC. Second team honors went to seniors Andrew Schoenle, Ryan Vosseteig and John Aranguren.

Lady Cats Honored at Conference Play

The Lady Bobcats finished the regular season as the #2 team in the WVIAC and the #10 in the East Region of NCAA Division II women's basketball. During their season, the Lady 'Cats defeated long-time rivals West Liberty State and Glenville State. The win at West Liberty snapped the Lady Hilltoppers' 36-game home winning streak. The Lady Bobcats advanced to the semifinals of the WVIAC tournament. Sophomore Heather Kaufman was an integral part of the Lady Bobcats' lineup.

As a team, the Lady Bobcats were ranked near the top in many statistical categories in the WVIAC. Seniors Andrea Gianni and Kristen Wells were named to the All-Tournament team in Charleston. Junior guard Jessie Roeth was named to the first team All-WVIAC squad. Sophomore center Frances Carvajal was named co-player of the week twice during the season. Freshman Julie Bell was named to the WVIAC All-Freshmen team. As a team, the Lady Bobcats were honored with the Sam Marcio Sportsmanship Award at the conference tournament.

Rigorous Training Pays Off

With eleven returning swimmers and eight freshmen, Wesleyan's swimmers commenced training the second week of the fall semester. September contained rigorous cross training in addition to the regular swim schedule, which included six a.m. and afternoon practices.

Two a day practices ended as the meet season began in late October. The team faced losses in early meets against Shippensburg and Indiana University of Pennsylvania, but the team stayed focused on the conference championship. As the first semester ended, the team prepared to go on its annual winter training trip to Clearwater, Florida.

At the final home meet seniors were recognized for their contributions. Captains Bill Bandzuch, Tristan Springer and Katie Dunleavy were acknowledged in addition to the other two seniors, Adam Peterson and Chris Wiley. Those in attendance at the meet had the added bonus of watching Monica Morin attain her NCAA Division II cut in the 200 Butterfly.

After a three-week taper, the team headed to Wooster, Ohio to compete in the Bluegrass Mountain Championship. The women placed first and the men took third place. Junior Allison Griffith was victorious in the 100 breaststroke getting her a NCAA Division II cut for the second year in a row.

A month later, the two National qualifying girls went to North Dakota to compete. According to Monica Morin, "It was great to travel to North Dakota and be part of such an amazing event for the second year in a row. I feel privileged just to witness some of the fastest races in the nation and to swim in the same pool as these competitors!"

Women Claim WVIAC Victory

West Virginia Wesleyan's women claimed the team title at the WVIAC Track and Field Championships in April. The Bobcat ladies outpointed Charleston 220-173.

Veteran Wesleyan mentor Jesse Skiles was the Women's Coach of the Year. Lady Bobcat Kelly Turhune was the Track Athlete of the Year.

The men's team came in third with 133 points behind league winner Wheeling Jesuit and second place Concord.

Coach Skiles looked forward to repeating the honors in the next season.

Athletic Training Program

Nationally certified staff athletic trainers along with student athletic trainers supervised the care of all campus athletes throughout the competitive sports seasons. Wesleyan's athletic training program continued to excel not only on the field or courts, but also in the classroom.

Seven Wesleyan athletic training majors shined brightly during the West Virginia Athletic Trainers' Association's (WVATA) Annual Meeting and Competitions in March held in Wheeling, WV. Seniors Jen Schofield, Brian Potter, and Travis McCormack, and juniors Danielle Salmons, Ashley Bland, Jennifer Jordan, and Jay Kitchens were invited to enter the WVATA Student Oral Presentation and Poster Presentation competition. Schofield and Potter were selected to present their senior thesis. Potter finished second and was awarded $100. Schofield, McCormack, Salmons and Kitchens, Jordan and Bland were selected to present their research papers in poster format; Bland finished in first place, winning $100. Kitchens and Jordan, as well as Schofield and McCormack, tied for second place, winning $50.

Remarkd Jean Fruh, program director, "Participating in this type of an event is an important step in the professional preparation of the athletic training student."

Colophon

Volume 93 of West Virginia's Wesleyan's Murmurmontis was printed by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas using Elite Vision for Windows 2000. The 1100 copies of the 9x12 yearbook contain 152 pages printed on 80# enamel. The cover is skivertex orange with one applied color which is black. Endsheets are parchment. The senior section is the only section printed in four color. Type fonts are custom designed for each section. The theme "Home Away From Home" was originated by the 2003 Editorial Board. Portrait and group pictures were taken by Dave Mihalko of Contemporary Studies in Medina, Ohio. Various photographs were submitted by members of the campus community. The Murmurmontis staff maybe contacted by phone at (304) 473-8482 or by email @ murmurmontis@wvwc.edu.
